---------------	--------------

We have again reached the end of another year in the history of the Mechanics' Institute, an institution that has been in active existence for forty years, and during that period has been closely allied to the best interests of this city and State, and has pursued its policy of progress seldom interrupted by change in its policy, which has always been to serve its members well and do its duty to the community. Without political or religious affiliations, it has exerted and still exerts an influence in the affairs of the State, through the steady and disinterested efforts it has made in the line of good citizenship, progress and intellectuality. May it never waste its strength in stepping beyond its legitimate province or by failing to do its whole duty within its sphere.

It is one of the few quasi-public institutions that carries on a degree of public work through its own resources, and with the exception of one solitary time when it distributed premiums as agent for the State, it has never called on the treasury of the State for one dollar and it has never been the recipient of any endowment from any private citizen except a sum of $10,000 for a specific object from James Lick, the mechanic and distinguished philanthropist, and $500 from Mr. John Center, who has always shown himself a friend to the Institute.

This has appeared to many of us as hard and unappreciative, but to-day we feel a modest pride in the fact that this institution has built itself up to its present position by its own efforts and through its own resources.

During the past year, substantial progress has been made in the affairs of the Institute, and the permanency of its location has been determined for some few years to come, and it may safely be said that there is no more centrally situated institution in San Francisco than the Mechanics' Institute. The moving of the circulating library to the main floor has added greatly to the convenience of the members and is fully appreciated by them, and in like manner the removal of the reading room to its present quarters has placed the newspapers and periodicals easy of access and has avoided the necessity of climbing two long flights of stairs. The lectures and classes are now held in this building, and in consequence have increased in popularity.

The membership is now steadily increasing and has reached 4473, and the recent additions include about 31 per cent. women.

The election of officers for the third time has been held under the proportional representative system, and the smooth and successful working of that system marks its success.

During the past year the Constitution and By-laws have been rearranged and harmonized and two important changes made therein, the sinking fund has been abolished and the treasurership has been transferred from an individual to an incorporated bank. The affairs of the Institute have been placed on a better business basis and its methods made simpler and stricter rules enforced for the protection of the interests of the association.

The purchase of books has been quite limited and all expenses have been cut down within the margin of safety. The changes affected in the building have naturally disturbed many details in the management of the library. These, however, will be adjusted as fast as imperfections are discovered and proper corrections will be made.

The petition of members referred to the Trustees at the last meeting of the Institute, protesting against the removal of the reading-room from its old quarters, was immediately considered by the Board of Trustees, but action on the same was deferred until it could be ascertained whether the objection was well grounded, and at a recent meeting of the Board it was decided that the interests of the greater number would be best served by allowing the reading-room to remain in its new quarters.

During the extensive alterations made in the building, which involved strengthening of the foundation, removing and reconstructing partitions and dividing walls, insertion of new piers and columns, removing and rebuilding the sidewalk, putting in new shelving, removing, rearranging and reshelfing almost the entire library of 70,000 volumes, constructing new ventilating flues, lavatories, etc., the business of the library was not interrupted a single business day, and too much praise cannot be awarded to the Building Committee and its Chairman, Mr. Oscar Lewis, and to the Librarian and his intelligent and willing assistants.

Since the alterations have been completed, it has been possible to have regular lectures delivered and classes held in this building. Of the former, seven have been given to large audiences, and of the latter there are three, viz: 1 Class on Mechanical Drawing with 38 pupils, 1 Class on Freehand Drawing with 50 pupils and 1 Class on Mathematics with 10 pupils.

The Trustees have declared that whenever there are a sufficient number of members willing to subscribe enough to pay a teacher on any acceptable subject, the Institute will furnish rooms, light and janitor service free.

The lectures, in all cases, are free to members, and to those interested in electricity I would state that a course of three lectures on each of the three Saturday evenings next ensuing will be given by Professor Corey of the University of California on that subject.

Within the past few months the California School of Mechanical Arts, endowed by James Lick, has been opened. It is the last completed and the generous gift of the late James Lick to the people of this State, and through which habits of industry and thrift and the Mechanical Arts will be taught to young men and women who desire and expect to become proficient in some mechanical pursuit and to go through life with dignity, independence and intellectual strength. The Institute is heartily in sympathy with the purposes of that endowment, and extends to that school its friendship, its respect and good wishes.

Another late citizen of California has also left a sum of money, $400,000, to the State University, to found a school for a similar purpose, and the late Mrs. Lux, appreciating in like manner the necessity for developing native skilled labor, has bequeathed a very large sum to that end.

In view of this movement on the Pacific Coast to develop and create a class of educated mechanics and artisans, well grounded in the practices and fundamental theories of their callings, it is not encouraging to observe the decrease in this city and State in the manufacturing industries which find employment for the mechanics and artisans which these institutions propose to create, and it is to be deplored that public and private corporations and individual citizens do not unite in encouraging our home industries by all the means in their power that they can reasonably exercise.

The Institute has joined other institutions in a call for a State convention on March 19th, at the Chamber of Commerce, in this city, to consider means to correct this deplorable state of affairs.

The report of the Secretary, which has been read in detail to-night, shows that the Institute has received during the year from all sources, $70,263.47, and that it expended $68,761.69, leaving a balance in bank at the end of the fiscal year of $1,501.78, and all bills paid. Of the receipts, $5,423.95 was balance on hand first of the year, and $20,000 borrowed money at 6 per cent. Of the disbursements, besides current expenses, $14,911.25 was spent in the improvement of this building, and $6,000.00 borrowed money returned and $2,884.09 unsettled accounts of the last Citrus Fair. The current receipts and disbursements, omitting these extraordinary items, were as follows: Receipts $50,263.47. Disbursements $46,468.13. In the latter is included interest on money borrowed and taxes both charged against the property of the Institute on Folsom and 16th streets, and amounting to $6,829.99. I must state, however, that the item of books, bookbinding and periodicals, which should amount to at least $10,000.00 for the year, in fact only amounted to $7,261.46.

The coming Industrial Fair will open August 13th, and close September 14th next. For the success of this Fair we must all work, and it will require unremitting and intelligent labor on the part of the Trustees to restore the Fair to their former splendor and prestige. With the earnest and unselfish work of the Trustees, and the hearty co-operation of the members I feel confident that the Mechanics' Institute will feel proud of the exhibition, and that it will be a credit to the city and State as well as a financial success.

The year just closed has been a disastrous year for the country. California has felt the oppression, and San Francisco has not, to my recollection, suffered so much since the Fraser river gold mining excitement many years ago. This association, in common with the general interests of the State and city, has suffered also from the depression and stagnation in business. In the worst of it she bravely undertook the improvements in this building that called for the expenditure of so much money. I believe the dark clouds are rolling by, and that we have already obtained glimpses of the silver lining and that with the brightening prospects of the future and careful management during the ever present, this state, this city and this Institute will advance rapidly in the march of progress and prosperity, and in the line of usefulness to man.

Respectfully submitted,

A. S. HALLIDIE,
President.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.The Board of Trustees:

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit for your consideration the fortieth annual report, covering the work of the Library for the year ending February 28, 1895. The Library has felt the general depression in business to some extent, but the accompanying statistics indicate the continuance of the steady growth which has been shown in the history of the Institute from the beginning, and which has become more marked in later years.

This table shows the number of volumes in the Library this date, but does not include pamphlets nor volumes of unbound periodicals, of which we have :

Pamphlets	2,686
Unbound periodicals.....	580

The books reported "worn out and disposed of" include the volumes that from successive bindings become useless for our purpose, and the occasional mutilated volumes that are discarded. These are sent annually to the State prisons, where they are furbished up and continue their usefulness.

BINDING.

New books, periodicals and pamphlets bound.....	885
Old books re-bound	1,337
	2,222

Repaired in the Library	3,463
-------------------------------	-------

A large proportion of our smaller books are now bound in buffing, experience showing that the wearing quality is equal, if not superior to roan, at a considerable reduction in cost. We are also experimenting in buckram and canvas, but have not had time to test their suitability for our work.

PERIODICALS.

The Library and Reading-room are supplied with 452 representative newspapers and periodicals, many of them in duplicate—

American	352
Foreign	100
	452
Paid	300
Presented.....	152

In addition, the following magazines are taken for home use, circulating as new books, that is, for one week without privilege of renewal :

Arena	3	Munsey's.....	2
Atlantic	2	Nineteenth Century.....	1
Century.....	4	North American Review....	2
Cosmopolitan	3	Outing	1

Harper's	5	Review of Reviews	2
Lippincott's.....	2	St. Nicholas.....	3
McClure's.....	2	Scribner's	4

The issuing of periodicals for home use is one of the most popular and useful features of the Library, and could be extended with advantage to include all of the more important magazines, the number of copies being regulated by the demand.

The expenditures in this department have been :

For books.....	$3,714 11
For periodicals	2,222 34
For binding	1,325 01
Total expenditure.....	$7,261 46

DONATIONS.

The gifts to the Library were :

Bound volumes.....	381
Unbound and pamphlets.....	690
Periodicals.....	152
Maps.....	12

A list of donors is appended.

CIRCULATION.

The Library was open 305 days during the year, and there were issued for home use 153,330 volumes, an average daily issue of 506, classified as follows:

General periodicals...	2,638	Fine Arts	2,092
Philosophy	1,302	Poetry and Drama....	5,028
Religion	918	Fiction and Juvenile..	122,487
Sociology.....	1,667	Essays and Letters...	4,737
Philology	344	Geography and Travel	3,895
Natural science	1,880	Biography	3,209
Useful Arts.....	2,429	History	3,704

The largest issue in one day was 1,244 volumes.

I have omitted any statistics of books used in the Library rooms, as, with the unrestricted freedom of the shelves which our members enjoy, it seems impracticable to even approximate such use. The fact that our building is so favorably situated and convenient of access, places our books at the service of our patrons with the least possible waste of time. That this is taken advantage of is shown by our rooms crowded with readers, and the use of books in the rooms must consequently be very large. It is, therefore, to be regretted that the statistics cannot be more complete.

A constant complaint from the majority of our members is that they cannot get the latest publications promptly. This is met, in a measure, by our system of registering requests and notifying the member in turn by postal card when the book is in; but although our purchases seem to be quite liberal, there have been several instances during the year when a member's number would be "in line" from six weeks to two months before the desired book was reached. There have been 7,625 notices sent for books so reserved.

CATALOGUING.

In addition to the current accessions, which are catalogued before they go into circulation, there have been catalogued since the last report:

AMERICAN HISTORY.

SOCIOLOGY, including—

Political Science.	Socialism.
Political Economy.	Protection.
Labor.	Free-trade.
Finance.	Law.
Money.	Administration.
Land.	Education.
Co-operation.	Manners and Customs.

MEDICINE (not yet completed).

The need of a complete catalogue is felt more keenly as the Library increases in numbers of volumes and membership, and while the work is carried on as fast as possible, the pressure of more urgent business makes the progress discouragingly slow. There should be separate catalogues of the different departments placed in the rooms for the convenience of both members and attendants, as the arrangement of the books upon different floors make the consulting of our main card catalogue inconvenient. The pamphlets (numbering 2,686) should also be catalogued, as there is much valuable material in that form which is practically lost in their present imperfect arrangement.

SUNDAYS.

The Library is open on Sundays from 12:30 to 4:30 P. M., for reference and reading purposes only, no books being given out or received on that day. There is an average of 45 visitors daily, and present at any one time 19.

CLASSES.

Evening classes in Mechanical and Free-hand Drawing are held two evenings a week, the class year being divided into two terms—

Spring term, January to June.

Autumn term, July to December.

The fee is $1 25 each term, to members and children of members, payable in advance.

There were 118 registered for the autumn, and 86 for the spring term, which is now in session.

LECTURES.

A number of lectures on topics of interest have been given during the year, and there is a series of University Extension lectures now being delivered every Saturday evening, to be continued until May. They are given in the Library rooms, and are free to members and their friends.

RECEIPTS.

A table of statistics is appended.

During the year extensive and important alterations have been made in the Library building. The store premises, No. 29 Post street, have been utilized for library purposes, giving us a well lighted and cheerful room on the level of the street, and adding 1850 feet of shelf room to our circulating department. In this room are placed English prose fiction, juvenile books, essays, letters, oratory, humor, administration, education, philology, poetry, drama, fine arts, and the French, German, Spanish and Italian books—in all, 20,715 volumes. The delivery desk is located here, all books being issued and received at this point. Its great popularity with our patrons is indicated by the increase in circulation, which has been twenty-five per cent over the previous six months. Of the members who have joined the Institute since the change, 31 per cent have been ladies.

The second floor still holds the reference department, the patent room and the following classes of circulating books: Philosophy, religion, mythology, sociology, natural science, useful arts, history and biography.

Circulating books from this room are sent by the book elevator to the charging desk in the room below, where they are registered and delivered.

With all the noise and bustle of the delivery desk removed, this floor gives us three excellent study and reference rooms, a fact that seems to be fully appreciated by the many who use them. On Saturday evenings lectures are held in these rooms.

The third story is occupied by the chess-room, class-room, board-room and office.

The basement story has been completely remodeled and divided into two large rooms. The reading-room has been removed from the third story and placed on the east side, giving a large, well-ventilated room, easy of access, with a greater seating capacity than the old room. Some of the bound files of newspapers are placed on permanent shelves in this room.

The next room has been fitted up with shelves and stacks, and the Government reports, the balance of the bound newspaper files, sets of magazines and the stock of duplicate books, in all 9,877 volumes, are arranged in order there, easily accessible to the members.

With our increased facilities, it would seem but a natural consequence that our sphere of usefulness will be extended, and the Mechanics' Institute become a still more potent factor in the welfare and prosperity of this community.

Respectfully submitted,

A. M. JELLISON,
Librarian

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Mechanics' Institute was held in the rooms of the Institute, No. 31 Post street, Saturday evening, March 9, 1895.

The assemblage was called to order at 8 o'clock by President A. S. Hallidie, and after the reading of minutes of the last meeting, reports from the Librarian, Secretary and President, the following report from the Judges of Election was presented:

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2, 1895.

To the Trustees of the Mechanics' Institute :

GENTLEMEN: We hereby report as to the election of Trustees for the Institute, which took place on Tuesday last, February 26th, the following results:

The number of votes cast was 1,000, that of the two preceding elections, under the proportional and preferential plan, having been 905 in 1893 and 853 in 1894. There were on this occasion 16 candidates, and the seven elected are as follows: Grove P. Ayers, Ernst A. Denicke, Richard P. Doolan, Will E. Fisher, Ferdinand Formhals, Howard C. Holmes, Rodney Kendrick.

On the votes being counted for first choice, it was found that 7 ballots were so marked that the intentions of the voter could not be ascertained; the quota was therefore taken on the remaining 993 votes, which, divided by 7, gives 141 and 6 over. Dropping the fraction, the quota was therefore 141. No candidate received a quota on first choice; hence there was no surplus to distribute, and the elimination therefore commenced immediately after the ballots had been counted for first choice. Messrs. Ayers, Doolan, Fisher and Holmes were elected on full quotas. Messrs. Denicke, Formhals and Kendrick on 137, 139 and 141, respectively. Exclusive of the 7 ballots improperly marked, as above stated, 32 could not be used in electing candidates, because, when they were reached, the candidates marked on them had been either elected or eliminated previously. But nearly or fully all of them contained the names of candidates who had been so elected. A printed proof showing in a table the entire transfers in detail will be added here-with as soon as it can be got up.

J. SAULMAN,
HENRY TOOMY,
ALFRED CRIDGE,
Judges of Election.

On motion the report was received and approved.

No further business being presented, the Chair announced that the next order would be the installation of the Trustees elect, by the committee appointed for that purpose, consisting of Hon. Adolph Sutro, E. Knowlton and R. O. Oakley. A letter was received from Mr. Sutro, regretting his inability to be present, but said, "though absent in flesh would be present in spirit," and commended the Institute as deserving the support of all persons having the advancement of San Francisco at heart.

Mr. Knowlton and Mr. Oakley then requested the Trustees elect, viz.: Ayers, Denicke, Doolan, Fisher, Formhals, Holmes and Kendrick, to take position in front, which was done and they then administered the oath of office, which was taken and subscribed to in accordance with the Constitution.

Mr. Knowlton then read an original poem, wherein he made some flattering allusions to each Trustee, and gave considerable good advice for their future guidance.

The meeting then adjourned.
